Course Description: This course is designed to introduce you to research and theory in social psychology. We will pay special attention to how research is carried out in this very experimental field, and how research informs (and forms) theories of human social behavior. We will also think about how social psychology can be applied to everyday life.

Textbook (required): Myers, D. Spencer, S., & Jordan, C. (2009). Social Psychology, 4th Canadian Ed. I cannot vouch for previous editions' suitability as substitutes.

I have created a custom edition of this textbook for you, available in the McMaster bookstore. This version cuts all materials that will not be used in 2C03, is soft-cover, is printed in black and white, and therefore saves you big bucks. If you prefer a full version of the textbook, then this may be available used in bookstore (but only the 3rd Ed.), or can be bought on-line for about $120.00.

E-mail Policy: E-mail must originate from your designated McMaster e-mail account. If we (your professor or TA) need to contact you, we will send the e-mail to your mcmaster.ca account. You should monitor this account regularly. E-mails sent from third-party providers (yahoo, hotmail, cogeco, sympatico, etc.) will be ignored. We have this policy for three reasons: (1) to reduce the amount of incoming spam to our accounts; (2) to ensure that we know with whom we are communicating; and (3) to teach the professional use of e-mail. Remember: E-mails to your professors are professional communications. They should include correct spelling and punctuation, and should be polite and to the point.

Website Policy: This course has a Blackboard website. You are expected to check this website with regularity for announcements, updates, discussion board postings, and other valuable information. It is your responsibility to keep up with the information provided on this site.

Use of the website's discussion boards is strongly encouraged, and, in the case of non-private inquiries (e.g., questions about course content and the running of this course, but not emails reporting illness or other private matters) is preferred to email communications. I have 850 students this term and cannot possibly answer all emails. Questions asked on the discussion board allow other students with the same questions the chance to see the answer (and therefore not have to ask the question themselves). Discussion board questions also provide a learning experience for students who attempt to answer these questions themselves.

Please see the first post on each discussion board for directions on how to use the board. Inappropriate posts will be deleted from the board. The professor reserves the right to ban students from the course website if they use the board inappropriately (e.g., posting mean or other inappropriate comments). This will involve lost access to slides and other important course information.

Finally, students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of this course, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in this course will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

How To Do Well in this Course: Read the syllabus very carefully! Read the website carefully as well: follow the discussions, and read any announcements or files posted there. Check the website several times per week.

Know the missed tests policy, available below. Do exactly as this policy asks if you miss a test, or you may be in for a nasty surprise.

You cannot do well in this course if you do not attend lectures. Although the textbook does support the lecture material, lectures often go far beyond the textbook. Therefore, if you miss lectures, you will miss important information.

You also cannot do well in this course if you do not supplement lectures with independent learning from the textbook. I do not cover all of the materials in the textbook; there is no time for that in a one-term course. Therefore, I expect you to spend some of your study-time identifying important concepts from the text, and learning them. Independent learning is a very important skill. You will be expected to do this in your upper level courses, and – more importantly – in what academics like to call the “real world”.

Slides are posted after their contents have been lectured on. I post the slides after lectures for several reasons. The most important of these is that no one in the real world is going to give you slides! In order to do well in the real world, you will have to know how to cope with large amounts of incoming information. If you have trouble taking effective notes, then please visit CSD, or see me or one of your TA's for advice.

Please note that my slides contain only basic information – bullet points, figures, and data. You cannot recreate lectures, and therefore cannot succeed in this course, by depending on them instead of attending lecture.

Finally: Think carefully about the information I'm presenting you in lecture. Two things are usually happening: (1) I'm telling the story of some theory or idea, and (2) I'm discussing the research that helped develop that story. As you study, think about why I've told you what I've told you. E.g., how does the research I've told you about change or add to or otherwise develop the theory that inspired it? If you're having trouble figuring out the answer to this question, then please come see me, and we'll work on it together.

Participation: In-class and discussion board participation are strongly encouraged. Remember, if you have a question, your colleagues probably have one, too, and will appreciate it if you speak up. Don't be shy about asking questions!

Assessment: Your final mark will be based on the following.

- (1) Midterm 1 = 30%
- (2) Midterm 2 = 30%
- (3) Final Exam = 40%

The midterms will be non-cumulative (exception: research methods), and will cover lecture material and assigned readings, even readings not discussed in class. The final exam will be cumulative, and will be held during the examination period. All tests will be comprised of some combination of multiple choice, definitions, and written answers. Please see the schedule, below, for assessment dates.

Please note that the instructor reserves the right to alter the evaluation scheme if circumstances warrant (e.g., TA loss).

Missed Tests: It is your responsibility to submit all excuses for missed tests to the office of the Associate Dean of your faculty within one week of the original test date. It is also your responsibility to speak with your professor as soon as possible. Senate regulations for petitions for special consideration have always required that: "40. The student shall make a prompt and timely request for special consideration." No requests for special consideration will be accepted after one month.

If you miss the midterm, a makeup test will be provided during class time a week to the day after the original test (yes, this means that you will miss a lecture if you miss the midterm). If you miss this make-up, then you must once again supply an excuse to your Associate Dean; otherwise, you will receive a mark of zero (0) on the midterm. If you can provide an acceptable excuse to your Associate Dean for having missed the make-up, then an alternate make-up assignment will be designed for you. This make-up assignment could take the form of a research paper, essay examination, or oral examination. Therefore, please consider the consequences of missing a test carefully!

Final Grade Calculations: Your final grade will be converted to a letter grade, according to the following scheme:

| Percentage(Grade) | Percentage(Grade) | Percentage(Grade) | Percentage(Grade) |
|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 90-100 (A+)                   | 77-79 (B+)                    | 67-69 (C+)                    | 57-59 (D+)                    |
| 85-89 (A)                     | 73-76 (B)                     | 63-66 (C)                     | 53-56 (D)                     |
| 80-84 (A-)                    | 70-72 (B-)                    | 60-62 (C-)                    | 50-52 (D-)                    |
|                               |                               |                               | 0-49 (F)                      |

Please Note: The instructor reserves the right to adjust final marks up or down, on a individual basis, in the light of special circumstances. Students who do not pass the final, or whose final exam mark is their lowest mark in the course, will not have their final marks adjusted up under any circumstances – poor performance on a cumulative final demonstrates a lack of familiarity with course content.

Please Note as Well: I do not do special favours for one student that I have not offered (or would not offer) to the class as a whole. For example, I will not, under normal circumstances, bump up your final mark (e.g., 69.2% is a C+ for all students; it is not a B- for you, but a C+ for the rest of the class). Your final mark is your final mark, unless a marking or mathematical error has been made. I live by this rule because special favours to one student are unfair to the multitude of students who neither ask for nor receive those same favours. If you are concerned about your final mark, therefore, it is your responsibility to visit with me or with one of your TA's for guidance.

Academic Integrity: You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behavior in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity. Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behavior can result in serious consequences, e.g., a grade of zero (0) on an assignment, loss of course credit with a notation on the transcript (“grade F assigned for academic dishonesty”), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonestly. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty, please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, at <http://www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity>.

SCHEDULE AND READINGS

This schedule is subject to change.

Changes will be announced on Blackboard.

The most likely change is the timing of topics scheduled directly before and after midterms.

This course is divided into three (3) sections. Below is a list of topics (with associated readings listed in blue) that I expect to cover in each of these sections. Note that not all of the topics covered in your textbook will be covered in lecture. Read and learn these anyway.

At the end of each section, you will write an exam. Here are the pertinent dates:

Midterm 1: 7 Oct

Midterm 2: 9 Nov

Final Exam: To be scheduled by the Registrar

A note on dates and deadlines: The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with an explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check their McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.

A note on the readings: I will not be deleting any of the readings listed below. Plan carefully so that you do not find yourself “cramming” the readings at the last minute. Please do not email me asking whether I plan to delete any of your readings! This is rather high up on my “top ten most annoying emails” list. I will not respond to emails that ask questions answered by the syllabus.

Please note as well that extra readings may be assigned as we go. These will be announced in class and on Blackboard; links to extra readings will be posted on Blackboard; it is your responsibility to keep track of extra materials.
